REFORM IN CHINA.

It Is Having a Hard Time to Displace Old Customs.

Washington, Jan. 12.—A compre-hensive review of the remarkable change that is taking place in China as a result of the promulgation of the re-cent decree reorganizing the Chinese government is supplied to the state de-partment by Edward T. Williams, Chinese secretary to the American legation at Pekin.

Reciting the orders for the forma-tion of the two commissions which were to deal with reform projects, Mr. Williams says that for over a month past these commissions have been holding daily sessions wherein two strong parties have been struggling for leadership; one bent on securing a liberal government on modern lines, and the other determined that there shall be no departure from the tradiand the other determined that there shall be no departure from the traditions of the fathers. As far as it has gone, their report is a compromise but many valuable features are retained. Particularly worthy of note is the abolition of the scheme for a cabinet and of the proposed construction of the council of customs affairs with the new board of finance, probably because of foreign opposition to further interference with the customs administration. The edict itself hints at the groatest difficulty which has been encountered in the reform movement, namely, "Worship of the past" for nowhere, says Mr. Williams, does the deed hand weigh more heavily upon dend hand weigh more heavily upon the living than in China, and the first essential to success in any new movement is to prove either that it is not an innovation, or at least that it is not hostile to the spirit of the fathers. The chief feature in the edict is the unwise to give it a full measure of liberty.

The press is yet in its infancy in China and is said to be characterized by such venality, according to Mr. Williams, as to make it to the district.

Some obsolete institutions have been abolished or incorporated with other boards; such are the "court of sacrificial worship," the "court of imperial entertainment," the "court of state ceremonial," all of whose functions have been taken over by the "board of rites" and the "court of the imperial stud," which has been swallowed by the "board of army." Mr. Williams calls attention to the fact that the commissions are continuing their work calls attention to the fact that the commissions are continuing their work of reform and the report forming the basis of the edict already is understood but is partial. The provincial civil service is now receiving attention and this is said to be a greater task than that already completed.

In conclusion Mr. Williams says:

"On the whole the edict must be regarded as marking one of the most important epochs in the history of China and while the sanguine will undoubtedly be disappointed in the results, there seems no reason to doubt that the desire of the throne and of many patriotic officials for reform is most sincere and that some measure of importance will follow. We hope at least that the changes now being at least that the changes now being inaugurated will prove to be but the beginning of a movement that will bring China into line with the most progressive nations of the world."

MESSAGE TO CONGRESS.

President Roosevelt Calls Attention to the Colorado River.

the Colorado River.

The chief feature in the edict is the manifest endeavor to approach the ideal of "one man, one office." Equally important is the abolition of the use-less multiplication of offices and with relations, who he board of foreign relations, who he board of foreign be changed without the permission of the powers, there will henceforth be only one head to each of the governing boards. Some of the old designations are quite obsolete and the titles have been modernized. The board of punishments was never fully described in the title which will now be called the board of law, corresponding with our department of justice. The new department called the "board of posts and communications" is said to be in line with the most advanced western nations' policies.

FLOOD STARTS.

Candidates for Congress Spring Up Like Mushrooms.

Galen Nichols Enters List With E. D. McKeever.

Present indications are that the contest for the Republican nomination for congressman in the First district to succeed Charles Curtis, after he has been formally elected United States senator, will be quite as interesting and quite as fierce as was the fight of Curfor the senatorial nomination. Already there are seven candidates in the field for the congressional nomination and they represent about every faction that participated in the senatorial fight. The candidates already in the field are

E. D. McKeever of Topeka, Galen Nichols of Topeka, Ewing Herbert of Hlawatha, D. R. Anthony of Leavenworth, Senator George P. Hayden of Wetmore, A. E. Crane of Holton, and W. J. Bailey of Balleyville.

It is the belief of the politicians today, who are in a condition to express an opinion after the festivities of last night in Copeland county over the Curtis victory and also the consolation parties held by those who were "stung," that D. R. Anthony will get the support of the Curtis faction and machine in the First district. Ewing Herbert is looked upon as a Curtis man also and might get the support of the Curtis people if it was found that Anthony is not avail-

Senator Hayden after his vote in the caucus of last night may be classed also as a friend of the Curtis crowd. Prior to that time he was considered a strong anti-Curtis man. So between Anthony, Herbert and Curtis there may be a three cornered fight for the support of the Curtis machine.

A. E. Crane will have the support of one of the anti-Curtis factions in cording to Mr. Williams, as to make it unwise to give it a full measure of liberty.

Some obsolete institutions have been other countles. If Bailey enters the contest in carnest it is thought by some that because of his wonderful popularity in the First district he will be able to beat the machinations of

We know that Cicero fell in love with a girl he met when returning to his boarding house after making a speech at the tribune. One fleeting smile mashed him as flat as a pancake.
